Morgan Phillips Named Montez Tjaden Young Professional of the Year

Tulsa, Okla. – Morgan Phillips, senior account manager at Waller & Company Public Relations, was named Montez Tjaden Young Professional of the Year at the Public Relations Society of America (PRSA) Tulsa’s Silver Links awards banquet June 17.

The Montez Tjaden Young Professional of the Year award is given to a newer public relations professional exhibiting strong character, sound leadership skills and an intense dedication to the overall goals and mission of PRSA.

“Morgan’s talent, hardwork and dedication have been invaluable to her clients, our PRSA chapter and to our firm,” said Mary Waller, chief operating officer. “Morgan truly is a team player and is well deserving of this honor.”

In her position at Waller & Company, Phillips manages ongoing media relations, editorial marketing and special events for many of the firm’s clients, and she brings strong writing skills to her work on magazines and other client publications. She graduated with honors from Oklahoma State University in 2007, where she earned a bachelor’s degree in print journalism with an emphasis in public relations and a minor in Spanish.

Phillips is a freelance writer for both TulsaPeople and TulsaPeople Weddings magazines, and she currently serves as a board member for the Tulsa chapter of PRSA and as a member of Tulsa’s Young Professionals (TYPros).
